Speaker for Memorial Day

Monday evening the executive committee of Lee-Jackson Camp of Confederate Veterans held a meeting and directed the commander to formally invite the Rev. George W. Educators to Meet Saturday in Lexington

An adjourned meeting of the Citizens' Education Association of Rockbridge county will be held in the Courthouse Saturday next, May 7th, at noon. At this meeting a permanent organization is expected to be effected, the following committee having been appointed to present a plan of organization: Mr. M. W. Paxton, Prof. J. H. Latane, Col. H. C. Ford, Dr. A. Nash Johnston and Mr. Harrington Waddell.

At the meeting held in Lexington Saturday, April 10th, Gen. Scott Shipp of the Virginia Military Institute, and Rev. E. H. Rowe of the Southern Seminary, Buena Vista, were instructed to prepare a call for the people of Rockbridge to meet May 7th and organize a county association. The call has been prepared which, in part, says:

"The needs of our public schools are painfully manifest to our people. No one feels them more sensibly than the thoughtful and intelligent men and women whose children are largely dependent upon them. Therefore, in view of the fact that the public schools do not meet the vital needs of our children, and the fact that in some sections the people have, by determined and concerted effort, greatly increased their efficiency and made them serve far more adequately their great end, and that all over the State our people, under the enthusiastic leadership of our Governor and his distinguished associates, are earnestly endeavoring to improve our public school system as greatly as possible, we, the citizens of Rockbridge, should make May 7th, 1904 a marked day in our history by a great outpouring of all the people on this occasion, not only the fathers and the mothers in the interest of their children, but all other patriotic citizens as well, who feel an interest in the promotion and perpetuity of the institutions and the life of our people and our civilization."

"Hence our appeal to the people of Rockbridge to attend the meeting in Lexington we base on two of the greatest and most potent motives, the love of children, and the love of country, and we shall hope for such a response as will show that we, the citizens of the famous and venerable county of Rockbridge, hold ourselves ready to meet the providential issue of our day and generation in the heroic spirit of our fathers and predecessors, whose great history, educational as well as political, is our heritage and our inspiration."

Dr. J. Wm. Jones' Lectures

The Rev. Dr. J. William Jones of Richmond, Chaplain-General of the Grand Camp of Confederate Veterans, delivered an interesting lecture Friday evening in the Lexington Baptist church before a large and appreciative audience. His theme was, "The Boys in Gray: The Private Confederate Soldier as I Knew Him." The proceeds were applied to the Baptist parsonage fund.

Dr. Jones is possibly the highest living authority on matters pertaining to the Confederacy. He was a participant in that struggle, and has since devoted much of his life to study of the causes and results of that heroic war, and he has eloquently championed the Confederate soldier with pen and voice.

The address Friday night was a vivid portrayal of the life of the private soldier—his diversions in camp, his heroism in battle, many times his deep religious convictions and through it all his stern sense of duty.

The New Pastor's Impressions

Rev. J. Olin Knott, pastor of Trinity Methodist church, Lexington, in a communication published in last week's Baltimore and Richmond Christian Advocate, gives his impressions of his new charge here. He says:

"As I write I look out of the really handsome parsonage at Lexington upon the old historic town, so dear to all Southerners and so interesting to tourists. We have been most cordially received, and the audiences at our first services have been all we could ask. The boys in gray, who are always at the morning preaching service, throw the man who speaks to them from the pulpit upon his resources. They come because they are 'ordered' there. Not the best conditions for a receptive hearing of the truth, and, therefore, something new under the sun for the pastor, who has never experienced this kind of church-going before. At night visitors from other congregations come in, so that both morning and evening the pastor at the Lexington Methodist church has an element outside his own congregation both interesting and influential to consider."

"The good work of my almost life-long friend, Light, is seen on every hand. I could not be long feeling at home in a pulpit he had for three years occupied. It was said of him at Keyser, that he left that charge after four years of service loved by everybody in and out of his congregation. None speak of him here but to praise him. Blessings upon him in old Fredericksburg."

I have given the Training Table to the Cornell University for five years very satisfactorily, and am certain that much of the success has depended upon the quality of articles used. In baking powder, I use the Royal, for it is undoubtedly the best. I have occasionally given others a trial, and have demonstrated to my satisfaction that there is but one always reliable, always making perfect, delicious and wholesome food, — "The Old Reliable" Royal.

The Plain Truth

What More Can Lexington People Ask For?

When old-time residents and highly respected people of Lexington make such statements as the following, it must carry conviction to every reader:

J. Withrow, the well known clothing merchant on the corner of Main and Washington streets, says: "For two years of and on, I was troubled with backache and a dull tired aching across the loins with sharp pains in the kidneys. I if I stooped or lifted anything, I noticed Doan's Kidney Pills advertised to cure such complaints and I concluded if they performed half what they promised they were just the remedy I needed, so I got a box at B. H. Gorrell's drug store. After using them a few days I noticed that the pain and aching had lessened and by the time I had finished the box I was entirely free from it. Doan's Kidney Pills did for me more than I ever expected. I can certainly recommend them."

Facts About My Summer Goods

I now have my store full of them. More than I ought to have, but they are pretty, they are cheap, and they are good quality. I do not believe in allowing prices to influence me into buying old styles and inferior quality simply because the price is low. I think it pays, and it is certainly more satisfactory for buyers to see a big variety to select from, and for this reason I think it pays to come to town and see the larger stocks. I can pick up a good many satisfactory things from the smaller cities, but I find so much more in New York that I can always get better pleased.

I have never sold prettier Wash and White Goods. They have progressed in making these goods until they are as pretty as silks almost, and very much cheaper.
